LAVENDER LEAVES.

The slender spikes of grayish green, Still moist with marning dew, Recalled a garden sweet with box Beyond the ocean's blue-An English gardon, quaint and old, She never mere might know— And so she dropped a homesick tear That summer long ago.

The vellow sheets grew worn and thin And fell in many a shred.

Some went to bind a soldier's wounds, And some to shroud the dead. And Mistress Standish rests her soul Where graves their shadows throw And violets blessom, planted there

THE ART OF CONVERSATION.

One stummer long ago.

—New England Magazine.

It Means Saying Old Things In a New and Charming Way. Talkers are not those who have news to tell. Their mission is, as Pope described the poets, to put into words what oft was thought before, but not so well expressed. The mind is unequal to the strain of taking information as such all the time. We read just as we dress in new garments-not because we are naked, but because we want to vary our garments. We read poetry for inspiration, science for the laws of life and nature, newspapers for general information, essays and history for relaxation and the basis of knowledge. Any one well read in these must be an entertaining companion, if the faculty of imparting the sum of them be given. In other words, if he or she be a good talker.

Lord Macaulay, one of the best informed men of his time, was so irresistthe staker that whole companies sat for hours to listen. His love of talking was so inordinate that a cessation of his wondrous outflow was jocosoly alluded to as a "brilliant flash of silence." They had, it is true, more time to talk in other days than we can set aside now, and there were other occult influences not less conducive to engaging garruilty. In those times the streets were filled with picturesque shapes and colors—the nameless grace of costumes and equipages now seen only on the stage. No wonder that, surrounded by birds of such brilliant plumange, courts and fings, robes and plumes, clashing swords and trasting sills, our fathers and mothers talked well. But in revenge we have a versation. The schecitery of today has a greater fund of knowledge by merely learning life's needs than his best educated of the ancients. But he should be encouraged to make use of this by talk.—Philudelphin Times.

Ilardships of Telegraph Poles.

"Yes," said Jeseph Dolmer, superintendent of kills of talking, "telegraph poles along the line have a hard time. is this so out west, where the poles are costly and stations are few and far between. Now, cut in the Arizona desert the poles are played the dense with generally. There is a sert of woodpecker that picks the polishibsolutely to places, thinking there may be insects inside of the wood. They hear the humming and haven't sense enough to know what haven't seuse enough to know what causes it. Then near the hills the black bears imagine that each pole contains a swarm of bees and they climb to the top and chew the glass insulators to pieces; but the sandstorms are the things that create the most havee. When the winds blow strougly, the sand is drifted at a rapid rate and the grains cut away the wood at a fearful rare. It was a common Grizzi thing to have an look pole worn to a shaving in a day's time, while I have seen poles just ground to the surface of the earth during a single storm. Things got so bad out there that the company decided to substitute steel poles for the oak and cedar, but that didn't romedy the evil at all. The sand just were away the evil at all. The sand just were away the metal on each side of the pole until the center was as sharp as a razor, and all the Indians used to shave themselves on the edge. We finally managed to fix things—just painted the poles with soft pitch. The pitch caught the sand, and now every pole is about two feet thick now every pole is about two feet thick and as solid as a rock,"-New Orieans Times-Democrat.

Made a Difference. He had just doffed his hat as a remerkably pretty woman passed, and his companion enviously congratulated him upon his acquaintance. "Oh," he replied carelessly, "that is Belle Gotrocks. Pretty, isn't she?"

"Bet your life. Know her well?" "Well, I should say! Why, she's an old flame of mine." "Old flame of yours?"

"That's what I said." "You may be an old flame of hers, but she is not an old flame of yours." "What's the diff?"

"If you are an old flame of hers, her father must have put you out?" "Guess you're right, old man. That's just what he did."—Chicago Times-

HOMESTEAD LAWS,

The bill to extend the homestead laws in Oklahoma and other sections where the Indian title has been recently extinguised was the main feature of the proceedings of the Senate last week. The advocates of the bill pointed out the impossibility of the settlers upon the remote and arid regions of the West paying the Government $1 25 an sere for their lands. Senator Platt of Connecticut was the leading opponent of the homestead settlers of the West, He contended because the Government bought the lands that the settlers should pay the money back to the Government dollar for dollar, or leave their homes. He expressed great appre" hension that by continuing the principle of the homestead laws to lands established policy of the Government, there would be such special privileges as would make the pioneer settlers dishonest. He was opposed to persons coming to the Government for relief because their business would not pay. ' Senator Stewart, in reply, called attention to the army of manufacturers from the east and middle west crowding the corridors of the Capitol and beseeching the Committee on Ways and Means of the House to raise the tariff and shut out foreign goods because their business was not sufficiently remunerative. He reminded the Senate that the wise policy of the Government in giving the settlers homes in the Mississippi Valley and the far west had built up great States and furnished a market for the manufacturers of New England and thereby benefited the east as much as the west.

It is believed that when the Senators of the east realize what it means to make an exception against the pioneers who may hereafter make an attempt to make homes in the arid regions, they will hardly feel at liberty to pursue the harsh policy indicated by some of the Senators in the debate.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

The proposition of Senator Lodge that the Congressional Record be done away with will probably come like a very light to-day, a dull session being able, Melancholy or troubled with shock to many of the contributors of anticipated. > MASS MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT those pertaining to the inspection of Called for the Purpose of Discussing the Bucetrack Proposition.

There is a mass meeting called for Washoe to Ormsby county, and turning Geo. H. Douglas was appointed In- the racetrack over to the University for south side of my nursery, which, in my judgspector of Sewers at a salary not to ex- the purposes of the Agricultural Ex- ment, are the best at that ever have been perimental Station. Every one who is of will be offered in the town of Reno. All interested in the offering of the control of interested in the affairs, of this county and shrubs, all the different varieties of ber is earnestly invited to attend.

A Decided Nulsance.

It is too bad that several hundred people who are interested and enjoy Geo. H. Douglas was appointed In the Sunday evening services in the few hobos and hoodlams who have a respect for themselves and no regard respect to the first respect to the first respect to the respect The Board adjourned to meet as a for the feelings of others. A few arcounty board on the first Monday in rests and a day or two behind the bars might have a good effect and teach some of these youngsters good manners.

Chas B. Hood, Brokey and Manufacturers Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifles that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J.D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel, Fort Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinsville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail, and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. A Few Pertinent Suggestions Regarding Mrs. Hemming, 222 E 25th street, Chicago, always keeps it at hand and the has no fear of croup because it in-
